WARM WEATHER BRINGS PLANS FOR JUNE WEEK TO EVERGREEN CAMPUS

SENIOR DANCE A FEATURE

Old Time Interest Looked For As All Classes Are Invited To Take Part

With the return of warm weather, plans are being formulated for a June Week at Loyola. The Senior Class is anxious to have the whole school take part in the activities.

There will be either a Senior Ball in the gymnasium, or an afternoon tea dance as the major attraction. A championship tennis match has also been scheduled for one afternoon.

No other arrangements have been decided upon at this early date. An invitation will be formally extended to the other classes to aid in the plans. One member from each class will be chosen to make up the June week committee. All suggestions should be given to Mr. Gibson, Senior Class President.

For the past few years June

Loyola Debaters Defeat Georgetown College Team

Loyola achieved its second intercollegiate debating victory of the year when Georgetown College, of Washington, D. C., was defeated on Friday evening April 7. The tilt was held in the College Library.

The question under discussion was, "Resolved: That the Several States Enact Legislation Providing for Compulsory Unemployment Insurance."

Father Connell, S.J., Pays Curtailed Visit To Loyola

The students of Loyola College have been honored by the recent visit of Fr. Francis M. Connell, S.J., Prefect of Studies in the Maryland-New York Province.

Each year Father Connell visits practically every Jesuit college and confers with the Dean and professors in order to get an idea of the work accomplished during the scholastic year. This year, due to the lack of time, his stay at Loyola was short, lasting only about two weeks, part of which time was spent in visiting Loyola High School.

SPEAKERS FOR PRIZE DEBATE SELECTED AFTER TRY-OUTS

WAR DEBTS IS SUBJECT

As a result of the try-outs held before the Easter vacation, the speakers for the annual Prize Debate, which has become an outstanding event in the College extra-curricular program, have been selected. The subjects, which was also announced recently will be, "Resolved: That the War Debts should be canceled."

Messrs. John P. Bauernschub and Bernard L. Rice will uphold the Affirmative while Messrs. Bart T. Tiernan and S. Ciesielski will defend the Negative.

The affair will be held at

NOVEL MEETING SUCCESS

The Freshman Debating Society introduced a novel feature at a meeting held shortly before the Easter Holidays. Instead of the usual debate by four members, the speakers acted in the capacity of representatives of various nations at a session of the World Court. As delegates from their respective countries, they gave their views on the question, "Resolved: That the Pope should be official head of the World Court."

Mr. Dalle represented France; Mr. Hanzley, Germany; Mr. Gromacki, Japan; Mr. Cicero, Italy; Mr. Kimmel, the United States; and Mr. Deming, England.

SCHOOL PLAY "MERTON OF MOVIES" CANCELLED

SCHEDULED FOR APRIL 28

Change In Plan Due To Inability To Secure High School Stage

The College dramatic production, "Merton of the Movies", which was scheduled to take place in the Loyola High School Auditorium on Friday night, April 28, has been cancelled. Announcement of cancellation came shortly before the Easter vacation after one practice had been held at the Calvert Street institution.

Reason for the sudden change in plan was not officially stated, but it was made known that since the High School dramatic association was planning for a play at the same time, it would be impossible to secure the use of the stage at a time convenient for practice. Financial reasons prohibited the hiring of a downtown theatre as originally planned.

The play, "Merton of the

SENIOR RETREAT IS HUGE SUCCESS

Enthusiastically acclaimed as one of the most interesting and beneficial retreats ever to be held at Loyola, the Senior Retreat was solemnly brought to a close with Mass and general Communion on Holy Thursday. This was followed by a breakfast in the Library Building.

The success of the religious exercise was due in great measure to the good fortune of the graduating class in obtaining the services of Father John F. Duston, S.J., as re-

College Patron Honored

The annual celebration of the Feast of St. Ignatius Loyola took place on Friday, April 28th, at the Church of St. Ignatius. The entire student body of both Loyola College and Loyola High School attended the solemn High Mass, celebrated at eleven o'clock by the Rt. Rev. Peter L. Ireton, Pastor of St. Ann's Church.

Father Ireton was assisted by Rev. W. Paul Smith and Rev. George L. Larkin, of St. Paul's and Blessed Sacrament Churches, respectively. An inspiring sermon was delivered by the Rev. Joseph C. Glose, S. J., Professor of Psychology at the Woodstock Theological Seminary.

CATHOLIC LEAGUE FOR SOCIAL JUSTICE FORMED IN BALTIMORE

APPROVED BY ARCHBISHOP

In line with the present tendencies toward unified Catholic action all over the world, a committee was recently formed, to organize in Baltimore a Catholic League for Social Justice. The Laymen composing this league have received the blessing of His Excellency, the Most Reverend Archbishop Michael J. Curley.

The purpose of the organization is to show the necessity of conformity between human relations and spiritual ideals. This is to be accomplished not by preaching, but rather by the teaching of good example. There will be no formal organization, nor

STUDENT COUNCIL ADOPTS A STANDARD SCHOOL RING

DIE-WORK IS APPROVED

After much discussion, the Student Council has voted to adopt a standard school ring at Loyola. The majority of classes agreed that each year the ring should be made standard as far as the die work and build are concerned.

A drawing was submitted one of the jewelers with whom the present Senior Class was dealing in this matter. This model was made into a sample ring and met with the approval of all who saw it.

The usual discussions about the color of the stone, weight of ring, etc., were entered into, and it was pointed out in the meeting that such particulars would be left to the choice of the individual.

The die work consists of a

At last the orchestra has been signed for the Junior Promenade. Glen Garrett and his famous broadcasting and recording orchestra will dispense the melody at the annual feature dance of the College. Glen has a smooth ten piece band which played for eleven months over the Columbia Broadcasting System, going on the air from that system's key station, WABC.

He has played many college Proms, including Dickenson College, Gettysburg, and many others. Some of his other engagements were the Convention Hall, Steel Pier, and Young's Million Dollar Pier,

Holy Hour Held At College In Response To Pope's Appeal

In response to the appeal of Pope Pius XI for a universal Holy Hour on Thursday, April 6, a period was devoted to this service by the student body on that date.

Simplicity was the keynote of the Holy Hour which opened with the exposition of the Blessed Sacrament. Group prayer gave way to the private prayers of individual students, and practically the whole school attended.

Diphtheria Campaign To Be Conducted By Health Dept.

On May first, the Baltimore City Health Department will launch its third annual diphtheria prevention campaign. Mayor Howard W. Jackson will issue a proclamation designating May first as Child Health Day and will thus officially inaugurate the drive.

In this enlightened age there is no need for anyone to suffer from the ravages of diseases that can easily be prevented. Once an extremely prevalent and fatal malady, diphtheria is now being effectively combated by toxoid inoculations. So successful has been the fight against this disease that the number of deaths in Baltimore resulting from diphtheria has been reduced from twenty-three in

Mothers' Day

In less than two weeks, America will celebrate its annual Mothers Day, the observance of which strikes a tender and pleasing note amid the discord of the present day. At no other time has the preparation for this observance been more thorough, nor the occasion more timely.

Millions of people are unemployed, and thousands of mothers will this year be in want. A resolution has been introduced in both the House of Congress, calling upon the President to issue a special Mothers Day proclamation in the interest of "an unprecedentedly large number of mothers and dependent children who, because of unemployment or loss of their bread earners, are lacking many of the necessities of life."

The resolution goes on further to exhort American citizens to express their love and reverence for motherhood by the usual gifts and messages of affection to their mothers. But particularly appropriate to our times is the suggestion that in addition, we should try to aid other mothers who are in want. One of the truest tributes that can be paid to one's mother, or to her memory, is the passing on to others of the relief which we would give to her in similar destitute circumstances.

Mother love is ineffably precious. If we are unable to do more, we can at least show our appreciation by an increase in care and tenderness, not only on Mothers Day, but throughout the entire year.

The Recognition

The recent trial of the British engineers in Russia brings once more prominently to the fore the ever increasing strength of that country as a world power. Certainly, no nation would subject itself to the danger of war with so powerful a government as Britain unless it thought itself capable of maintaining its own—not at least on such flimsy evidence. At this distance it appears to have been but a test case to fathom England's attitude and that of other nations toward the Soviet regime.

This incident has been made the occasion for a flood of sentiment both for and against the Red Government, and has thrown into bold relief the much-discussed question of Russian recognition. It has come to our attention, that this question, which has become of major importance during the present administration, is being looked upon more and more favorably in this country.

Not only has the radical element assumed this attitude, but even those who have hitherto been staunch defenders of Americanism and true democratic principles, offering as their reason the doubtful trade relations to be gained from such recognition.

In this, as in many another case, when principle and profit are opposed, principle comes off the loser. The advocates of such a move seem to forget that in recognizing Russia, we must approve of a government whose openly avowed purpose is world revolution, incidentally the subversion of our own government, and the banishment of God and all religious principle. They forget, that Italy has been forced to abandon trade relations with Russia, because, while Russia paid with credit, Italy found herself importing from Russia more goods than she exported. They forget that such a move would force American manufacturers to compete with forced Russian labor.

While we are not advocating a selfish nationalism, it is well to remember that the American people still have some rights which demand protection.

Evergreen Reflections

J. W. F.

Junior Prom:

As inevitable as Spring itself, is the annual deluge of posters, announcements, signs and various other forms of advertising, warning you that you really can't afford to miss the colossal, stupendous, stuccolerific and otherwise "dance extraordinaire", that the So and So club will be present on such and such a night, dancing from now 'til then. But just as every group of good things must contain one that far outshines it's fellows, so must there be a dance which tanscends them all. Such a dance is the Junior Prom.

The Junior Prom of Loyola has long since become established as one of the most brilliant, most colorful and most glamorous dances to be held in this city. To gain such a reputation, the Juniors of former years spared no effort, no expense to render the affair an event which will be remembered and cherished far into the dim, hopeful years of the future. Thus goaded on, the present Juniors of Loyola have gone even farther than their predecessors, to present a dance that will live forever in the memories of all those who attend; a dance to which in dreams you may return time and again, and live those happy hours once more. Enthusiasm has run rampant on the campus, and on the night of May 5, the Juniors plan to capture Old Man Gloom, toss him high on his funeral pyre, and to eradicate him forever, with flames of happiness.

The stage is set. Dame Nature has done her bit. A moon is promised. The time is near. Every Junior has striven to do his part to contribute to your pleasure. Their work is done. They have done it well. The final success of the affair depends on you and you and you, Mr. Loyolan. Will you be there? No further enticement can be added. Suffice it to say, that each and every man who trips the light fantastic to the strains of Glenn Garrett's music on the night of May 5th, may well say within himself, "My school year was a success; I attended the Junior Prom".

Noble Emotions

Whether or not it coincides with the misconceptions of human frailties which dwell in the minds of some of our pessimists and long-faced "calamity John's", the old adage, that "there is good in the worst of us", still stands, unaltered by ever-changing opinions and sentiments. Thus, be you the most frivolous, fickle ne'er-do-well who ever trod life's path-ways on this particular orbit, you cannot deny that ever so often, there rises from deep down within you an irrepressible urge to do something noble, like rescuing a fair young maiden from an on-rushing train, for instance, or smiling to the guardian of the law who bestowed on you a ticket a few weeks back,—or even saying a good word for the College paper. Thus are you entrapped within the throes of this urge, and nothing will satisfy you until you have accomplished the act. Such an urge, (though it comes but rarely to most college students), is that urge to study.

Let it imbed itself firmly within yourself, until you feel that you have the will and determination to do bigger and better things. And then with the eyes aglaze with yearning; with a heart fairly bursting with a craving to learn and learn about, look about you for a book,—any book, and when you have acquired it, and it lies open before you, then and then only, release the great mass of newly generated energy that is stored up within you. Release it and direct it toward the book. Assimilate knowledge! Satisfiate your craving! Study—study—study. Your desire is fulfilled! Your noble action done! you are a man!

Regular doses of such medicine will soon cause the strange attacks to grow weaker and weaker, until finally they will die altogether, never again to return to disturb your peace of mind.

The Thinker's Return

One cannot fail to notice the recent trend to pipes on the campus. Every day brings some new recruit, anxious to woo Lady Nicotine through the medium of the pipe, in preference to other forms. Several explanations have been advanced for this new fad, some claiming that it is a sign that the depression is over, while others claim that it is a sign that the depression is still with us,—(as if we need a sign). One very evident explanation is that it enables one to cheat the horde of cigarette "chiselers" out of their daily booty. However this has its drawbacks, for since pipe smokers are in minority, there are fewer opportunities for us to "chisel".

With the exception of Mr. Cicero, the delegates were against the Pope's acting as head of the Court. They stressed in their speeches that the Pope, being infallible only when teaching a doctrine of faith or morals could be swayed if pressure were brought to bear upon him by any nation.

They argued also, that the duties of both offices would be too great for one person to handle, so that the Pope could not devote enough time to the problems that would present themselves for his judgement.

Mr. Hanzely was chosen as the speaker whose delivery, diplomacy, and argumentative skill were the best. Mr. Cicero was also commended for his speech.

Something to Say

not just saying something

A friend of CHESTERFIELD writes us of a salesman who had "something to say":

"I dropped into a little tobacco shop, and when I asked for a pack of Chesterfields the man smiled and told me I was the seventh customer without a break to ask for Chesterfields. 'Smoker after smoker,' he said, 'tells me that Chesterfields click... I sell five times as many Chesterfields as I did a while back.'"

Yes, there's something to say about Chesterfields and it takes just six words to say it—"They're mild and yet they satisfy."

Alumni Chatter

We came back from the Easter vacation feeling rather perky but on turning the calendar, found that there were exactly twenty-five more days of school left, which might be an occasion for joy, if it were not for the fact that each succeeding day brings the final exams correspondingly close. (Death, where is . . . you know the line.)

We read with much relish a recent account of the triumphal return of a certain much-advertised beverage to the traditions of old Nassau (Princeton to you), and we have been wondering if such a tradition might not be out of keeping with the sentiments of these hallowed halls. We mean the opening of the "Old Nass" rathskeller with its separate rooms sacred to each class; the old tables where one might trace the initials of one's paternal ancestors; the treasured family heirlooms (but they call them steins) handed down from the father to son; the ideals; the good-fellowship; the pretzels—but why go on?

And speaking of suits, you should have seen our new Easter get-out. Our oil-skin cap, latest-model slicker and shiny galoshes were the snappiest-looking on Charles Street. Vass you dere?

Pardon us if we have rambled a bit from the subject, but alumni items, like gold payments, are few and far between these days and this space must be filled. Oh, well! It's now or never, so here goes.

Alumni Breakfast

As recounted in another column, the annual Alumni Mass and breakfast was held on April 23. This day, Low Sunday, is already becoming a tradition in the annals of the school. It's just another proof of the activity of our grads. The best feature of the affair, aside from the religious aspect, is the including members of the Senior Class. Where the alumni and student body get to know and cooperate with each other, great results can be expected. However, this spirit of fellowship should not be allowed to stop with the Seniors, but should be extended to the entire school. The annual Smoker is a long step in the right direction and we hope to see it held again next year.

Medicos

Joseph Beltz and John Gould, both of the class of '29 are completing their last year at the Georgetown Medical School and will graduate this year. Here's wishing them good luck and "happy landings".

Joseph Murphy, '29, is attending the night sessions of the University of Baltimore Law School.

Cash Customer

Joseph Blair, '29, is secretary-treasurer with the Baltimore Banking Company.

Over The Barrier

Thomas J. Grogan, Jr., '29, was admitted to the State Bar last month. Tommy is now with the Legal Aid Bureau of Baltimore and is quite enthusiastic about the work. He had the unique, if rather disconcerting experience, of presenting his first case about five minutes after he was sworn in. This happened in Washington some weeks ago.

Tommy went to that city to look up some records connected with a case, was told that the court was in session and was duly admitted to the Washington Bar. He thought all this rather strange, but the full light did not dawn upon him until he was ushered into a courtroom where three judges were presiding on the bench and told to plead his case! He must have been pretty convincing, for he obtained the most favorable verdict possible. Congratulations for fast work, Tommy!

Catholic Action

The Catholic Evidence Guild has increased its scope and is now holding open-air meetings at Patterson Park every Sunday afternoon from 3 o'clock until 5. They are also continuing their forum at Hollins Market every Saturday night.

Priesthood

George T. Bolling, ex '29, is completing his last year of studies for the priesthood and will be ordained this June.

Bishop McNamara

Bishop McNamara, '97, was the principal speaker at the "international dinner" given in conjunction with the seventh annual conference of the Catholic Association for International Peace, held at the Catholic University and the Mayflower Hotel in Washington last month.

Raido Hour

The Rev. George F. Strohaver, S.J., ex '08, delivered a sermon recently at the Immaculate Conception Radio Hour in Washington. Excerpts from the sermon were published in the Baltimore Catholic Review.

Congratulations!

Bernard T. Talley, '29, recently had a new addition to his family—press dispatches did not specify whether it was a boy or a girl. Bernard is at present connected with an insurance company in Washington. Congratulations!

ANNUAL COMMUNION MASS FOR ALUMNI ASSOCIATION CELEBRATED ON APRIL 28

SENIOR CLASS ATTENDS

Mr. Leo A. Codd, '16 Is
Speaker At Breakfast
Following Service

The annual Communion Mass for the College Alumni Association was held in the Student's Chapel on Sunday, April 23, and was offered for all members of the Association, both living and dead, particularly for those who died during the past year. Father Wiesel was the celebrant of the Mass which was followed by a breakfast in the Library Building.

Members of the Senior Class, which had been invited, were present together with about seventy-five alumni. The group was one of the largest ever to attend the annual event.

Mr. James P. Walsh, '12, President of the Association, presided at the breakfast and introduced the speakers, Father Wiesel and Mr. Leo A. Codd, '16.

Father Wiesel spoke on the legal affairs of the College and also asked the alumni to join the newly formed Catholic League for Social Justice, an informal organization whose members pledge themselves to learn the teachings of the Church on social questions and to exert themselves for the accomplishment of social justice. This body, which had its origin in New York, has been approved by Archbishop Curley. Father Ferdinand Wheeler, S.J., ex '05, has been appointed recorder.

Father Wiesel went on to tell of the slow but gradual growth of the College since its removal to Evergreen, stating that, in spite of the times, it now has the largest enrollment in its history.

Mr. Codd delivered the principal address, his subject being, "The Heritage of Loyola Men." He recounted the traditions and ideals of Loyola and the advantages of a Catholic college education. He spoke of the duty of Catholic college graduates to ally themselves with the work of Catholic Action and also touched on the subject of patriotism.

Father Thomas J. Love, Faculty Moderator of the Association, invoked the blessing. Other faculty members present were Fathers O'Hara, Geoghan, and Cerrute.

Mr. Albert J. Sehlfedt, '19 was in charge of the arrangements committee.

We extend sincere condolences to Mr. Vincent deP. Fitzpatrick, '07, on his sister's death.

Father Wiesel Says Mass For Baltimore Fire Department

Father Henri J. Wiesel, S.J., president of the College, was the celebrant of the annual Communion Mass of the Baltimore Fire Department, held at St. Ignatius Church at 9 o'clock, Sunday, April 30.

Six hundred firemen, headed by their band, marched from the Municipal Plaza to the Church where they were met by Mayor Jackson and E. Lester Muller, President of the City Council. Fire Chief Howard Travers, accompanied by the three members of the Board of Fire Commissioners, Alfred E. Sharp, George T. Evans and Sidney T. Manning, marched at the head of the Firemen.

Father Ferdinand C. Wheeler, S.J., ex '05, pastor of St. Ignatius' Church, and president of Loyola High School, led the men in the recitation of prayers and in singing.

The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Francis McQuade, S. J., of Woodstock College.

The judges were, Mr. Walter L. Clark, Mr. Michael F. Delea, and Mr. Contee R. Rose, all lawyers. Their decision was unanimous. Mr. Russell E. Rozea was Chairman of the debate.

Loyola's victory of the year was over Fordham University when Messrs. Rozea and Tierman, of Senior, defeated the Rams at Fordham on February 17.

College Drama Cancelled As Opening Date Neared

"Movies" was to have been the first major dramatic production put on by the College in a number of years and would have been the first step in the reorganization of a permanent Dramatic Association at Loyola. The play, a four act comedy, depicted the trials and triumphs of a country youth in Hollywood.

Rehearsals started before the Christmas holidays and were held daily until the notice of cancellation was given. Due to the lack of facilities, the practices had to be held in one of the classrooms in the Library Building, which naturally added to the Thespians' difficulties. On this account, at least two weeks' practice on an actual stage was felt to be imperative. With this end in view, practice was transferred to Loyola High School, but after one rehearsal, the difficulty mentioned above arose which made continuance impossible.

Father Connell spent many years as a teacher of classics. While teaching at St. Andrew's he wrote the book entitled "The Study of Poetry" which is used by the majority of Jesuit colleges in America.

After his graduation from Loyola High School in Baltimore he entered Loyola College in 1881 but joined the Jesuit Order after completing his Freshman course. Father Connell celebrated his Golden Jubilee in 1932. At present he is stationed at St. Francis Xavier's in New York.

ELLSWORTH MUFFS A COUPLE

Ellsworth Vines, U. S. national tennis champion and conqueror of the great Henri Cochet, succumbed last week to the terrific urge to pick the twenty ranking amateur and pro racketeers in the world. No one will take the list seriously, and all will attribute it to the balmy spring weather, 'cause Vines leaves himself off the list entirely and ranks six amateurs ahead of Bill Tilden. We can place Ellsworth at the top of the pile ahead of all his choices (just as he knew we would), and we can understand how he would prefer to rank six simon-pures ahead of the mercenary Tilden, but for the life of us we can't figure who gave him the idea that there are 300 men tennis players who are able to trim Mrs. Helen Wills Moody.

KING LONDOS' THRONE TOPPLES

The rassling racket is becoming more and more involved. The Greyhound office boy tells us that there are, by actual count, 49 world heavyweight champions in our fair land alone,—one for each state and a substitute champ for the District of Columbia.

Joe Savoldi recently threw the faithful into consternation by sneaking up on Champion Londos, tossing him for a row of restaurants, and claiming the title. A merry verbal battle is being waged by the contestants. Londos claims it was not a tittle match; Savoldi insists that it was, basing his claims on newspapers in his possession which advertised the "fight" as a championship affair. Let it be pointed out that such things as contracts are never thought of in arranging these bouts between members of the same "stable".

The squabble should prove to be a tough blow to rassling, but the fan who follows the grunTERS is not the sort to resent such insults to his intelligence. The two athletes will work themselves into a fine frenzy, a grudge match will be arranged, and no rassling arena in the country will hold the hordes of suckers who will hand out their hard earned shekles to watch the farce.

LACROSSE TEAM SHOULD STICK TO CAMPUS

Little has been heard in the last two weeks of the Loyola Lacrosse Club and its avowed intention of competing in the Maryland Lacrosse League. The formation of the informal team was a splendid idea and it is hoped that the boys will stick together. But they would be a whole lot better off to stay out of the Maryland League.

Those in charge of the team are men who know what it's all about, but it is doubtful if they realized what they would be up against in the Sunday league. The players in the league are older, many of them are ex-college stars, and the brand of lacrosse is somewhat on the order of the box variety of the sport.

We have no intention of labeling the Loyola team as a lot of softies, but collegians are, after all, only boys. Games with the various Jay Vee and prep teams will prove to be more evenly matched,—and more enjoyable, which is the prime purpose of sport.

SEARCHING FOR A RAY OF SUNSHINE

The writer has just completed a laborious and exhausting bit of research work which, sadly, proved to be of no avail. A painstaking and thorough perusal of the sport pages of the St. John's (Annapolis) Collegian for the season of '32 and '33 was made in an effort to find a stray note of cheer or optimism from the pens of the Crabtown student writers. The sport pages failed to produce the sought-for word. In the fall the football team took its razzing. During the winter the basketball team suffered. And now the fine lacrosse team which Dinty Moore has constructed and which has all the earmarks of a typical St. John's championship outfit is, to paraphrase a little, praised with faint damnation.

GOLF TOURNEY BEGINS MAY 4

It has been announced that a Loyola Golf Tournament will take place next week. The qualifying round will be played at Clifton Park on Thursday and Friday, May the 4th and 5th. There is an entrance fee of fifty cents which will go toward buying a trophy for the champion and prizes for the winner of each flight.

The winner of the tournament will earn the title of champion of Loyola. This affair is held for the purpose of establishing a team for next year. When the qualifying round is completed match play will begin, to be played weekly at Clifton Park.

All students at Loyola are eligible to enter the qualifying round. Gregory Kane, Sophomore, will accept entries on or before Thursday, May 4.

Winner

Frank Cummings, the long, lean Sophomore, recently competed in the South Atlantic Swimming meet. Contesting under the colors of the Knights of Columbus, "Sliver" captured third place in the 220 yard free-style event. For this fine performance against the best natators in the South Atlantic section he was rewarded with a bronze medal.

During his years at Loyola High School Frank was the leading member of the tank team. In his Senior year he was elected captain of the mermen, and led them through a very successful campaign.

Incidentally, "Sliver" was the only Knights of Columbus entrant who qualified for the finals of any event in South Atlantic meet.

LOYOLA TENNIS SCHEDULE FOR SEASON OF 1933 IS COMPLETED

SEVEN MATCHES BOOKED

Father Cerrute has announced a six game schedule for the Loyola tennis team for the '33 season. Three games are carded at home and three away.

The Greyhounds will meet Boston College's netmen in Baltimore in the first match on April 22. Home and home series have been arranged with Western Maryland and St. John's of Annapolis. One match will be played with the Black and Blue Jays of Johns Hopkins.

Price Colvin, the Sophomore who gained national recognition in public parks competition, is in charge of the Loyola squad. Colvin has issued a call for candidates to report at the gym for practice.

The most promising of the crop for this year are Weatherly, Rozea, Krautblatter, Colvin, Streckfus, Cummings, McAleer, and Cuddy. These players constitute the makings of a strong team, despite the loss of Stu Palmer and Joe Bradley, the mainstays of last year's outfit.

The schedule:

- April 22—Boston College—Home.
- April 29—Western Md.—Westminster.
- May 6—St. John's—Annapolis.
- May 11—Western Md.—Home.
- May 17—J. H. U. Homewood.
- May 20—St. John's—Home.
- May 17—J. H. U.—Homewood.

Loyola Baseball Team Arranges 3 Game Series With J. H. U. Nine

Will Play In Oriole Park. Tony Comerford Coaches Greyhound Team

The Loyola baseball team has announced a series of games to be played with the Johns Hopkins team. The schools have obtained the use of the Oriole Baseball Park for the next few weeks while the Birds are away on a trip. Three games will be played by the outfits. The first contest will take place on Wednesday, May 3, at three o'clock at the ball park. An admission price of twenty five cents will be charged.

The hot rivalry exists between the two schools will find an outlet in these contests. The Loyola team has progressed surprisingly well, and looks for at least two victories in the three games.

Comerford Coaching Loyola

Tony Comerford has taken an interest in the ball club and has succeeded in organizing the outfit. He is holding daily practice, and he expressed surprise in the great amount of diamond talent at hand.

The one doubtful department of the squad is the pitching strength. Tanneyhill and Kelly are capable twirlers, and George Lunak has shown good form. The latter, however, is needed at his first base position. One more steady hurler would assure the Greyhounds a strong outfit for the three games. The series may be so arranged that the pitchers on hand will have time to rest up between assignments.

Defensively the team looms very strong. The infield is composed of experienced players who field well. Lunak holds down the initial bag, Douglas is at second, Deming short-stop, and Farley is at the hot corner.

Ford Shines in Field

Bucky Ford has shown lots of class in center field. The stocky footballer is very speedy and camps under flies with all the ease of a veteran. Fitzpatrick is another outfielder, and Biggs and Botta will alternate at catcher and in the field.

Lunak and Ford are the heavy hitters of the squad. Both these lads have been pounding the ball lustily during practice, and Farley, Biggs and Botta are very timely hitters.

Boston College Netmen Defeat Loyola 4-2 In Season's Opener

Colvin And Krautblatter Win. Visitors Capture Both Doubles Matches

The Boston College tennis team defeated Loyola's netmen 4 to 2 in their match at Druid Hill Park on Saturday, the 22. The Northerners had a four man team on the trip and the outfits played only four singles and two doubles matches.

The strength of the B. C. team was more evenly distributed than Loyola's forces, the Greyhounds winning only the first two single clashes. The Eagles teamed well in the doubles to beat both the Green and Grey combinations.

Colvin Shows Class

Price Colvin displayed some of the form which carried him to national ranking last year in the public parks play and easily ran off two sets against Lyons, Boston College's ace. Colvin outclassed the Eagle's number one man, winning 6-2, 6-4.

Krautblatter had some difficulty with Carr, but finally managed to squeeze out a victory. He was away off form for the match, and was forced to go three sets before he copped the decision.

In the other two singles Streckfus and Bender lost in straight sets to Ryan and Kieran.

Doubles Well Matched

Interesting battles developed in the doubles matches, both of which Boston College won after a struggle. Colvin and Weatherley teamed against Lyons and Kieran, and after losing the first set 4-6, the Greyhounds rallied to take the second at 6-1. However, the B. C. players came back to win the deciding set 6-1.

DR. SCHROEDER OF THE NATIONAL DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
DISCUSSES CURRENT MILK PROBLEMS TO CHEMIST CLUB

Although the problem of Tuberculosis is far from being solved, yet more careful methods of handling milk, in the future, another obstacle in the path of the health workers against this disease will be overcome. This and many absorbing facts were detailed by Dr. H. A. Schroeder, of the National Dairy Products Co., in a lecture before the Loyola Chemistry Club on April 25th.

The milk industry, said Dr. Schroeder, is one of the oldest industries of man, dating back to the time of the ancients. Due to the fact that milk has such a high percentage of nutriment it is perhaps the most perfect food known to man. Not only is it a very good food for all animals but it is especially adapted to the growth of micro-organisms. On account of this, milk is easily contaminated by various pathological germs if left in the raw state and not subject to pasteurization. Until a decade ago milk was the indirect cause of various human diseases including Tuberculosis.

There are three scientific phases in the milk business, as outlined by the speaker. The bacteriological side, the chemical, and the technical phases.

Until a few years ago the bacteriologist did not have very definite methods for determining the number of bacteria in a known quantity of milk. This problem was overcome recently by chemical methods. Through the application of methylene blue to milk the number of organisms per cubic centimeter may be determined with a fair degree of accuracy. This is done by observing the rapidity with which a solution is bleached by bacteria.

The technical side of the milk industry is at present concerned with the problem of equipment, especially of suitable materials for pasteurizing machinery.

The speaker in closing, remarked that although the milk industry has been the subject of extensive research, yet there are many problems that as yet remain unsolved, particularly in the chemical line.

Prospective members of the League will sign the following pledge: "I resolve to inform myself on Catholic doctrine on Social Justice, to conform my life to its requirements and to do everything in my power, in my home and religious life, in my social and business contacts to promote its principles." The remainder of the pledge is a resolve to hear Mass twice a week and daily if possible; and to receive Holy Communion at least once a month and weekly if possible. This is to insure the perseverance of the members in their resolve, by means of the Divine assistance.

HAS GLEN GARRETT
AS FEATURED BAND

ADMISSION PRICE REDUCED

Miss Wyllette Hollander, Prom Queen, To Receive Bouquet From Miss LeFevre

(Continued from Page 1, Col. 5) all at Atlantic City, N. J. Space does not allow a longer list of his many engagements, but it will be well worth the price of admission just to hear this band.

This fact, coupled with the gorgeous favors which have been purchased, and the reduced admission price of four dollars ($4) ought to bring a larger percentage of students than usually attend the Prom.

Queen of the Prom

The President of the Junior Class has been keeping the name of the Queen of the Prom a deep secret, but formal announcement is hereby made that Miss Wyllette Hollander will wield the scepter over the devotees of Terpsichore. Her escort will be the Chairman of the Prom, Mr. George I. Waidner.

Miss Kitty LeFevre, Queen of last year's Prom will present a bouquet of roses to Miss Hollander, in accordance with the tradition established some years ago. Miss LeFevre will be escorted by Mr. John Gibson, President of the Senior Class.

Moonlight on the Fifth

Remember the date, May, the Fifth. You provide the girl, and the price of admission, and the Juniors will provide a never to be forgotten moonlit night, a smooth melodious orchestra, and a favor which is the best ever given at a Loyola Prom. See you there.

"JUNIOR PROMS"

Junior Proms are, as Nietzsche jollily observed, just another proof that mankind is crazy in general, and absolutely demented in college. Take a Junior in college. But who wants him? He hocks his watch, or borrows the wherewithal to buy a Prom ticket, a roll of mints, and two sandwiches after the dance, thus indebting himself till the Fourth of July. He gets a date, dresses himself in a funereal tux, a stiff shirt, and an air of sophistication, and then gives himself the equivalent to a ten mile cross country run. Is he crazy? Certainly. Are you crazy? Yes, but aren't we all?

Let's hope that this little Chess column will have a long and honorable career of service. It hopes to offer a mixture of various items of interest to Chess lovers: problems, celebrated contests, comments on Chess achievements, and bits of the history of the ancient game. And here we must publish our word of thanks to the Chess Department of the London Tablet, for their generous courtesy in allowing the Greyhound to publish valuable bits of Chess lore from their classic Chess Corner.

A feature of the Chess column will be the problems printed each week. Solutions should be sent to the Greyhound's Chess expert; answers and comments will be printed in the next issue.

The teams of the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, met at the City of the London Chess Club recently for their annual contest. It was the 57th meeting of the kind, and resulted in a win for Oxford by 5 games to 2. On the whole series the score now stands: Cambridge, 26 wins; Oxford, 25; draws 6.

Chess Tournament

The Chess Tournament sponsored by the Loyola Chess Club came to an end recently. The winner, "Chic" Chicelli, after an exciting battle of pawns, knights and rooks, out-maneuvered Thoman, his opponent in the final round, and clinched victory by winning the necessary three out of five games.

Strange to relate, three of the four semi-finalists were Freshmen. The lone representative of the upper classmen was "Buck" Bauernschub a senior who, incidentally, fell before the skill of Thoman, runner-up in the Tournament. Maguire the other semifinalist met and lost to the ultimate winner.

Play in the Tournament was enhanced by the acquisition of chess literature for the players by Father Risacher, who is a staunch advocate of this time honored pastime.

When asked for a statement after being crowned 'king' of the chess experts at Loyola, Chicelli, with the dignity of a Senior and the modesty of a Sophomore replied, "Luck, rather than skill, made it possible for me to win". However, those familiar with 'Chic's' play know that his keen mind is his best weapon and he doesn't look for the "smiles of dame Fortune" in order to win.
